Early Photograph of Summerhill House

Summerhill House was built c. 1705 - 1706, by the Harding family, who came from Nenagh. They had some connections with the Castle in Borrisoleigh. The Hardings had two sons. Summerhill House was built for one of them, while Brookley House in Drom was built for the second son. Brookley House was burned down c. 1921 - 1922. The Hardings continued to live in Summerhill House until c. 1860.

The Bradshaw family were the new owners of Summerhill House. They occupied the house until 1907, when Bob Wallace of Templederry purchased the house from the Bradshaw family who emigrated to Australia.

About ten years ago c. 1994 - 1995, Richard Bradshaw, aged 94 years returned to see the house. He asked the present owner, Robert Wallace to show him around. The old man went straight to a side entrance where he found his name and that of his father inscribed on the back of the door. The door is still in use today.

About 15 years ago, Robert Wallace was having a new floor fitted. During the excavation of the old floor, the workmen came upon a circular wall about 20 - 24 inches in thickness. This wall appeared to extend out under the foundation of the house and onto the lawn. It is thought that it was the foundation of a castle or large house which existed before 1703. It would therefore appear that the site was occupied long before 1703.

Three prisoners executed in Roscrea on 15th January 1923

Patrick Russell

Freddie Bourke

Martin Shea

Funeral cortege of Russell, Bourke and Shea in Roscrea

Truck driven by Joe Stapleton, Main St. In Passenger seat: Big Jim Stapleton, Finnahy

The following is a letter written by the three men Patrick Russell, Freddie Bourke and Martin Shea' on the night before they were executed...

Sunday night our last night on earth

Dear Josie,

I feel it hard to pen these few sad lines - tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock I will be executed. Now Josie, I know it breaks your heart, try and console poor Mother, for all I know she will find it hard but Josie if we were killed out in Ross that day there would be more cause to worry. T.G. We got a long day to prepare and we are quite satisfied, but we feel very much for you all. We went to H. Communion three times since and we are going again tomorrow morning. We will have the priest to the last.

We got three Masses said on Xmas day and another in the morning, so when one gets time enough they ought to be satisfied with God's Holy Will. See all the poor fellows that were killed in action and got no time to prepare so Josie try and keep up. We will all meet in Heaven where we will have peace and happiness. We offer our lives to God this night that by willingly giving them we pray that peace and happiness may be restored to you in a very short time and hope that our lives will be the last for Ireland's Freedom - Poor Josie I have no ill for any man that arrested us that day. I forgive every one of them.

I forgive the man that signed my execution. I forgive them who are about to take my life away. Give my last and best love to everyone and to the Burns and Fogartys and to all our old friends. I mean all that knew us. May Jesus and his Blessed Mother comfort you in your hard trial. S. Heart of Jesus have mercy on our souls. Tell our friends and neighbours we send them all our last love. Get all the prayers ye can for us. We will pray for everyone of ye in Heaven, Last love to Mother, Josie, Jimmy, Jack and Thomas.

From three fond brothers,

Patrick, Martin and Fred.

God save Ireland P.J.R.

I wish to write to a lot more but I have no time so a fond Goodbye Josie. I can't write to Tommy. I wrote to Ned. It will do for the two. Martin Kennedy was the last man who shook hands with me that day in Borris. We did not think that day that he would be gone before us. I hope we will meet in Heaven. Now Josie try and keep up. This world is but a shadow and in a very short time we will all be together again.

P.J.Russell

Lovely Fair Ileigh

(by Pat Mahon)

*I know a little winding road, so beautiful to stray,
When the wild perfume of the hawthorn's bloom,
and the woodbine skirts the way.*

*The heather brown upon the hill, and the wild flowers in the lea,
The shady road winds on between, to Lovely Fair Ileigh.*

*Ileigh it is a beauty spot, down in a shady dell,
The green hills fair raise above, where many a brave man fell.
Here the trees are evergreen, the flowers you'll always see,
The roses' perfume scents the air 'round Lovely Fair Ileigh.*

*If you wander up the green hill slopes, midst the pure and balmy air,
You can view the rolling plains below, so lovely bright and fair.
There nature gives her richest garb to every bush and tree,
And spreads the wild flowers o'er the vale, round Lovely Fair Ileigh.*

*At evening time in the old kiln field, you can see the boys so bold,
'Twould remind you of old Knocknagow, in Kickham's story told.
To see them wield their camans, so brave and manfully,
There's many a Matt the Thrasher 'mongst the lads of Fair Ileigh.*

*Yonder stands the little church, and the graveyard all around,
Where three of Ireland's noble dead, rest in that holy ground.
There are three green graves, sad I ween, no monument have they
Where rests in peace the ashes of young Russell, Bourke and Shea.
But the day is not far distant, and we hope it may not be,
When we'll raise a monument o'er their graves in Lovely Fair Ileigh.*
